

CLIENT RIGHTS & RESPONSIBILITIES

- You have the right to services regardless of race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, or disability.
- You have the right to be treated with dignity and respect.
- You have the right to confidential care and treatment records as protected by K.S.A 1986 Supp. 655601 to 65-5605. Information about you or information in your record cannot be given to anyone without the knowledge or written consent of yourself and/or your legal guardian except under the following conditions: 1. You are a serious danger to yourself or others. 2. Required abuse or neglect reporting. 3. As required by law. 4. In the event of a medical emergency.
- You have the right to receive treatment in the least restrictive, most appropriate manner.
- You have the right to receive an explanation of the potential benefits and any known adverse consequences or risks associated with any type of treatment included in your treatment plan.
- You have the right to refuse treatment.
- If you are receiving treatment involuntarily, you will be informed of the potential consequences if you fail or refuse to comply with any portion of the treatment plan.
- You have the right to participate in the development of your treatment.
- You have the right to receive additional, non-duplicating mental health services from alternative providers.
- You have the right to obtain complete information regarding your diagnosis, treatment, and prognosis in terms you can reasonably understand.
- You have the right to have another individual accompany you in your treatment. This right will be limited if the clinician believes this would interfere with confidentiality or treatment.
- You may exercise your rights through the use of advance directives, a living will, a durable power of attorney, or powers associated with a custodianship.
- You have the right to be informed, in advance, of all fees, payment requirements, and potential consequences for non-payment.
- You have the responsibility to respect the confidentiality of all other clients seen at this location.
- You have the responsibility to attend scheduled appointment times. Please provide 24-hour notice for cancelled appointments.
- You have the responsibility to respect the rights of others. If your behavior infringes upon the safety of other clients or staff, your services may be terminated.
